

PRIEST'S LIFE ENDS

Father Maguire Succumbs to Attack of Pneumonia.

BELOVED FOR HIS GOOD ACTS

Pastor of Church of the Holy Comforter, Whose Kindness to the Poor and Others in Distress Won for Him High Esteem—Cardinal Gibbons Pays Visit to Bedside.

Rev. Father Joseph I. Maguire, after an illness of several weeks, died yesterday afternoon at the rectory of the Church of the Holy Comforter, of which he was pastor, at 3:25 o'clock.

Like the late pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Father Maguire was not only beloved by his own people, but by all who knew him, irrespective of religious persuasion. For years he had ministered to the poor and unfortunate inmates of the city's penal and charitable institutions, and many of them knew him, not only as a minister of the gospel, but as a friend who took an interest in their lives and gave consideration to their daily necessities. He made no distinction in caring for the persons who came under his care as chaplain of the District's penal institutions.

Stricken with the Grip.
Father Maguire was stricken with an attack of grip December 27. This later developed into pneumonia. He had been rapidly sinking since last week, and nothing was left undone by his attending physicians, Drs. V. B. Jackson and J. B. Nichols, to save the good priest's life.

The deceased pastor was born in Baltimore, October 9, 1863. After completing his studies at Calver Hall College, in that city, he embarked upon a business career. Becoming interested in young men's societies, he organized the United Catholic Literary Society, a union of eighteen young men's societies in Baltimore, and aided in the building up of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, of which he was president, when he relinquished his business prospects for his sacred calling.

Father Maguire entered St. Mary's Seminary in September, 1884, and while a student there founded the Order of St. Camillus, through which the various asylums and hospitals of the city are visited by the students from the seminary. After his ordination, he also established this work in the seminaries of New York and Boston, and in the various colleges of the Catholic University.

In December, 1890, Father Maguire was ordained to the priesthood, and said his first mass in the Bay View Asylum, among the inmates who had found in him a friend since his first connection with the St. Vincent de Paul Society, fifteen years before.

His Chosen Vocation.
Seeing in him able capabilities, and knowing his chosen vocation was to minister to the poor and unfortunate, Cardinal Gibbons appointed him chaplain to the municipal institutions in the District of Columbia a short time after his ordination.

As director of the Special Works Conference of the St. Vincent de Pauls, he attended the United States jail, the workhouse, the Washington Asylum Hospital, the Reform School, and the Industrial Home School.

During that time Father Maguire ministered diligently among the inmates of these institutions, and carried on works of charity that will be known only to those who benefited by them. He went among the cells of the penal institutions, consoling and comforting the criminals, and sympathizing with those men who were beaten down by their habits and temptations. It has been said of him that while not an academic psychologist, he had a tact and insight into human nature that endeared him to those prisoners who would not care to see any one else, but who would calmly listen to his consolation and words of sympathy.

He often said to his assistants that his greatest work in life was to influence others.

The deceased pastor considered no trouble too much to undergo in helping a person in distress. He was never calculating or niggardly in doing good. The keynote of his character was sympathy.

In October, 1904, the necessity of establishing the charitable work on a secure basis arose, coincidentally with the recognition of the need for a church in eastern Washington. The double want was happily met by a single solution, and the Church of the Holy Comforter became the headquarters of the Special Works of the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Washington.

A Devoted Congregation.
In his twofold capacity as pastor of the Church of the Holy Comforter and chaplain of the District penal and charitable institutions, Father Maguire had the cooperation of a devoted congregation. When one considers that Father Maguire's first church in this city was established in a one-story building, that was converted from a poolroom, and in about a year's time the congregation occupied the present beautiful structure, the work that the late pastor carried on since his appointment in this city will be recognized.

His parishioners are alive to the untiring efforts displayed by the late pastor, and it is evident that a large majority of the men of the parish held a meeting at the rectory last evening and adopted resolutions mourning his loss and appointing the following committee to solicit funds for the erection of a memorial altar to mark his grave: Messrs. A. Betz, Louis Everett, and Adam Wechsler.

Rev. Charles E. Boone, assistant pastor of the church, presided, and named the following to act as pallbearers: Messrs. Richard Casey, John Glancy, Maurice Mulcare, A. G. Smith, B. Daly, and R. Smith. The ushers named are: A. Betz, J. Geary, E. L. Burns, Louis Everett, J. H. Buscher, W. H. Gilbert, H. Hess, W. Conner, J. Carter, J. Carlin, and John Flood. Those who will compose the door committee are: J. P. Germain, F. Healey, J. Lewis, J. McGee, James Torrance, J. Brady, Messrs. Adam Wechsler and W. Wheatley will receive the cardinal.

Admission to the funeral services will be by card only. There will be no flowers. Cardinal Gibbons and Mr. Falconio will attend the funeral services. The body will lie in state in the church until Friday, when a solemn requiem high mass will be sung at the funeral services at 10 o'clock. The interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Those who will celebrate the mass are as follows:

REMOVED BY DEATH.

REV. JOSEPH I. MAGUIRE.
Pastor of Church of the Holy Comforter, whose death occurred yesterday afternoon. Performed a great service among the poor and those in distress.

Hodge and C. F. McCarthy, Rev. J. F. MacKinnon, pastor of St. Paul's Church, will preach the sermon.

After a conference of the heads of the Catholic societies of this city with Rev. Father Boone last night, the honorary pallbearers were announced as follows: Judge William H. De Lacey, president of the Particular Council, St. Vincent de Paul Society; Thomas K. Gallaher, vice president; Patrick J. Brennan, treasurer; George F. Harbin, president of St. Peter's Conference; James F. Shea, president of Carroll Institute; Henry W. Sohn, M. A. Mess, vice president of the Catholic Knights of America; John Elbert, of the St. Aloysius Branch, Knights of Columbus of America; Hugh F. Harvey, president of Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians; John J. Dolan, of No. 2; Dr. J. J. Slattery, of No. 3; John J. Brennan, of No. 4; Joseph D. Sullivan, of No. 5; Thomas P. O'Dean, of No. 6; Daniel M. Stanton, of No. 7; James S. Easley-Smith, grand knight, Washington Council, Knights of Columbus; Dr. W. E. Pairo, of Keane Council; George T. Kolb, of Carroll Institute; Vincent A. Sheehy, of Spaulding Council; Thomas J. Donovan, of Potomac Council; Francis P. Sheehy, District President of the Ancient Order of Hibernians; Patrick J. Haltigan, State deputy, Knights of Columbus; Patrick T. Moran, national director, Ancient Order of Hibernians; Joseph E. Ralph, assistant director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; N. F. Shea and M. I. Weller, members of the board of directors of St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum; John S. Larcombe, and Upton Ridgeway, directors of St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum, and W. F. Downey.

Cardinal at Bedside.
Although Father Maguire had been delirious all yesterday, when Cardinal Gibbons arrived at the rectory to administer extreme unction to the dying priest, he regained consciousness and kissed the Cardinal's ring.

After the departure of the cardinal, he again became unconscious and expired a few minutes later. His aged mother, who has been ill for some time, was present at his bedside when he died.

Always a simple, unpretentious priest, Father Maguire's death will be felt not only by his congregation, but by those hundreds of poor and unfortunate persons whom he had delighted in caring for and comforting in their distress and sorrow.

Out of respect to his memory Cardinal Gibbons adjourned their regular meeting last night. A number of the parishioners remained beside the casket all night.

SOCIETY PAYS A TRIBUTE.

President of St. Vincent de Paul of the District Issues Statement.
Washington, January 7, 1908.
"To the Members of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, of the District of Columbia:
"Again we are called to mourn in the death of the beloved spiritual director of our special works, Rev. Joseph Ignatius Maguire.

"For years past he has been an angel of light and consolation to the prisoners in the jail and the workhouse, to the aged poor, and to the inmates of institutions generally in the District of Columbia. Like his beloved Master, he has gone about doing good, clothing the naked, feeding the hungry, and harboring the harborers.

"Let us remember to pray for his soul and the souls of all the faithful departed. It is recommended that the various conferences have offered masses of requiem.

"WILLIAM H. DE LACEY, President."

BODY ARRIVES IN CITY.

Funeral of Commander Hosley Will Be Held To-morrow.
The body of Commander H. H. Hosley, U. S. N., who died in New York Sunday morning, arrived in this city last yesterday afternoon.

Funeral services will be held at the family residence, 1708 Nineteenth street, to-morrow, at 1:30 o'clock. A large military and naval escort will accompany the body to Arlington National Cemetery, where it will be interred with full military honors.

Chaplain George L. Bayard, stationed at the Washington Navy Yard, will conduct the services.

Her Dog "Storm" Lost in Storm.
While the rain and sleet were coming down the hardest yesterday afternoon Miss Nellie Ash, who lives at 1829 Riggs street northwest, informed the police that her pet dog, named "Storm," was missing, and asked the assistance of the bluff coats in finding him. The dog strayed away from Miss Ash's home yesterday.

DR. VAN SCHAICK.

(Pastor of the Church of Our Father.)

If I were a Catholic, I should want to be a Catholic like Father Maguire.

If I were a priest, it would be my ambition to live such a life of service as his was.

For eight years I have known him. In charity work I have been associated with him, and I had come to love him as one of the noblest types of a Christian that I know in any church.

In the jail, at the workhouse, among the poor, as well as in his own parish, he preached and taught the gospel of hope.

He was faithful to his church, but there was not a bigoted hair in his head.

I suppose he had his faults, for he was human, but I never saw them. I don't know to-day what they were. I only know that in his death we lose one of the most kindly, patient, courageous, lovable souls that ever lived on earth.

MR. SIBLEY GIVES A DINNER

The Guest of Honor Is Mr. L. Meyer, the Postmaster General.

Distinguished Men in Politics and Literature Attend Event at the Willard Last Night.

Representative Joseph Crocker Sibley, of Pennsylvania, entertained at dinner in the Red Room at the New Willard Hotel last night in honor of George von L. Meyer, Postmaster General of the United States.

More than 100 guests, comprising the foremost statesmen, politicians, soldiers, and journalists of the country were present.

The room was tastefully decorated with palms and flowers, and an orchestra played through the entertainment.

At the conclusion of the dinner, addresses were made by several of the guests. These dwelt mostly with improvements needed in Washington, and many eloquent appeals were made for the erection of additional public buildings.

Senator N. E. Scott, of West Virginia, chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, declared that his best efforts would be used in securing for Washington any legislation necessary to the procurement of new buildings, and for the betterment of the public grounds. He said he believed that Congress would grant the majority, if not all, the reasonable requests made in this respect.

LECTURES ON SWEDENBORG.

Rev. Julian K. Smyth Will Speak at National New Church.
Rev. Julian K. Smyth, of New York City, will deliver a series of lectures under the general title of "Who was Swedenborg?" in the National New Church, Sixteenth and Corcoran streets northwest, beginning next Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

In these lectures, which will be given every Sunday night for four weeks, beginning next Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Smyth will tell of the career, character, and attainments of Swedenborg. He will also tell of "His Search for the Soul," "His Seership," and "His Value To-day."

The lectures are free to the public, and as they promise unusual interest large attendances are expected.

Knocked Down by Wagon.
James O. Wilson, fifty years of age, who lives at 1439 Massachusetts avenue northwest, sustained several painful cuts and bruises about the head and back yesterday afternoon when struck and knocked down by a wagon belonging to the Merchants' Transfer Company near Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue.

The man was removed to the Emergency Hospital for treatment, and was afterward taken to his home.

EXCURSIONS.
Convenience of connections at either terminal has much to do with the popularity of the Norfolk and Washington steamers at all seasons, but especially at this time of year, when they are patronized by tourists going to the Southern winter resorts. The steamer trip makes a delightful break in the journey by train and the perfect connections preclude loss of time or sacrifice of comfort. These boats sail every day in the year at 6:30 p. m. from Seventh street wharf. The traveling public the land over knows the Norfolk and Washington steamers very favorably. Their appointments are first-class in every respect, their staterooms examples of comfortable furnishing, their dining-room service and cuisine highly satisfactory to the most fastidious. At 706 Fourteenth street, first floor of the Colorado Hotel, there is an office for procuring tickets, receiving staterooms, etc.

ADE LIKES CAPITALS

Indiana Writer Visits the Capital of the Nation.

TELLS STORY OF A SPACE MAN

Recites His Version of That Story of the School for the Study of Art in Cooking—Once Lived in Lafayette, Ind., and Went to College and Wrote Medicine Advertisements.

Mr. George Ade, who has used more Capital Letters than most Any one Alive and who has more Capital than the majority of Newspaper men in the Country, was at the New Willard last night. Mr. Ade was joyful.

He was asked if it were True, as a New York Paper said, that he is going to Back a school for Instructing Young Girls in the Art of Cooking. He balanced his nice new Silk Tie on the Forepart of his head and remarked:

"Once upon a time there was a Space Writer on the New York Sun who had read two or three of my Books, but who was a pretty Good Fellow, anyhow.

"His City Editor called him up to his desk one Day and gave him a Clipping from the Goshen Blizzard, saying that I was going to Start this School. Since he was Writing on Space he had to get a Story to make Good. He wandered sadly out of the Sun Office and up-town, because he Knew that I was out in Indiana.

Got Up His Courage.
"This Space Writer got as far as the Cafe Martin. He went in and waded into a Few Drinks to get up his Dutch Courage—his name was Hoolihan—but that Story kept starting him in the Face. So he kept on Thinking and Thinking until he Finally worked it out. He Wandered into a book store, picked up a Hook on Cooking and one of the Standard Works on Capital Letters written by an Indiana Author and retired To Central Park To Work out his Plot.

"First he Tore out the pages of the Cook Book and then a page of the Standard Work. He Tore out about half the pages in Each book and Then shuffled them in a hat. Then he drew out a page. It was a page about cooking. Then he drew out another page, and it was from the Standard Work.

"He went back to the Office then and told the City Editor he had seen Me and had got that Story confirmed. He sat down to his typewriter and Wrote about a Column at eight dollars a line. He Wrote: 'Moral—Never leave New York to go to Indiana or You may be Misquoted.'

"Moral number two—If you're Writing on Space have all sorts of Handy Reference books close by, so you won't Have to Buy them."

Lived in Lafayette.
Mr. Ade is a graduate of Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana; erstwhile reporter on the Lafayette (Ind.) Daily Call; erstwhile writer of advertisements for Harry L. Kramer, a patent medicine promoter; erstwhile literary adviser of Septimus Vater, editor of the Lafayette (Ind.) Daily Call.

Mr. Ade, who, in the days when he made the trains at Lafayette, considered himself "shopped" if he missed a "personal,"—"John B. Sherwood went to the State Capitol this morning,"—"Dined with Charles W. Fairbanks, Vice President of these United States, last night."

George Ade, the writer, the playwright, the humorist, and the American politician—for it is said he wants to go to the Indiana State legislature—is in Washington to tell the Congress what he thinks of the "canned music" outrage. Just what his methods of warfare are to be has not been divulged.

His Mission in City.
Mr. Ade, who, in the days when he made the trains at Lafayette, considered himself "shopped" if he missed a "personal,"—"John B. Sherwood went to the State Capitol this morning,"—"Dined with Charles W. Fairbanks, Vice President of these United States, last night."

George Ade, the writer, the playwright, the humorist, and the American politician—for it is said he wants to go to the Indiana State legislature—is in Washington to tell the Congress what he thinks of the "canned music" outrage. Just what his methods of warfare are to be has not been divulged.

But to be serious, Mr. Ade is in Washington with Victor Herbert to bring protection to the authors of music, whose productions, it is contended, are purloined by phonographic concerns. Their music is sung into records and repeated by phonographs throughout the country, it is contended, without regard to the copyright law.

John Philip Sousa, Mr. de Koven, and other distinguished leaders in the world of music are coming to Washington to oppose calls from labor leaders and politicians who want the soldiers taken away and to inquire into the deportation of A. L. Behner, vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, Behner and Frederick Fox, another labor leader, are accused of inflaming public sentiment, and both have left the city and opened headquarters at Anderson.

Mayor Guthrie told the governor that he believed some of the labor might be withdrawn with safety, but no decision was reached at the conference.

40,000 RETURN TO WORK.

General Resumption of Commercial Activity in Ohio.
Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 7.—It is variously estimated that fully 40,000 employees returned to work in Cleveland yesterday as the result of a general resumption of commercial activity. Added to this number, probably 20,000 to 40,000 more men were put to work in the northern part of Ohio.

For the last three or four weeks it was expected that many factories that have been shut down would reopen on January 6. Not only did many reopen, but many resumed work with their usual number of employees. In other instances the working force was increased. This was true both in Cleveland and the surrounding towns.

It is generally believed that practically every factory in this district will be running full by February 1.

In Youngstown, Ohio, alone it is reported that nearly 8,000 men went back to work. Steel plants in several localities resumed operations. At labor headquarters here there was an unusual demand for labor.

Society Holds a Meeting.

Following the regular meeting last night at the Cosmos Club, 1529 H street northwest, the members of the Anthropological Society were given an entertainment. "Native Tribes of Costa Rica" was the title of a paper read by H. Pittier. O. F. Cook read a paper entitled "Notes on Guatemalan Indians," and G. N. Collins contributed a paper on "The Indians of Chiapas."

AMERICAN SECURITY AND TRUST COMPANY

Northwest Corner of Fifteenth and Pennsylvania Avenues. CHARLES J. BELL, President.

GOV. HIGGINS INAUGURATED.

Takes Oath in Rhode Island for the Second Term.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 7.—Gov. James H. Higgins was inaugurated to-day for his second term.

Immediately after the formal declaration by Deputy Sheriff Thayer that the government had been formed, Battery A, Light Artillery, fired a salute of seventeen guns from the Capitol grounds.

Each of the branches of the legislature, the Senate and House, met at 12 o'clock, the governor calling the Senate to order. The oath of office was administered to the governor by Secretary of State Charles C. Bennett, after which David J. White was re-elected reading clerk.

The house was called to order by Horace N. Passardo, of Newport, its senior member.

GOING SLOWLY ON SCHOOLS

District Committee of Senate Will Not Act Soon.

Sentiment for a Change Still Strong, However—Trackage Bill Expected to Pass Senate.

To let things drift for a time is the tendency among the members of the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia, so far as the school situation is concerned.

It is unlikely that any serious consideration will be given to the subject for the next two weeks, and that the inquiry ordered by the Senate will take place, now that Supt. Chancellor has been dismissed, is doubtful.

But Senators are keeping a careful eye on the situation, and it may be said that the sentiment for the abolition of the school board, which was marked before the dismissal of the superintendent, has not abated to any considerable extent. The proposition to place the schools in the hands of a commissioner of education, to be appointed by the Commissioners and be answerable to them, is favorably considered.

The House Committee on the District will organize to-morrow, and it cannot yet be said what attitude it will take on the school question. There is among the members a disposition to go slowly in dealing with the question.

The Senate committee will, on Friday, take up the Union Station trackage question, and the chances are that the bill for permanent tracks, prepared by the Commissioners and approved by Senator Gallinger, will be favorably acted upon. The amendments proposed by Senator Hansbrough are understood to be the only obstacle to this course, and at least one of them, that providing for a franchise tax on all public corporations, will be called in by the committee.

The idea of the members is that nothing should be allowed to interfere with early relief for the traveling public as regards communication with the station. The bill provides for temporary tracks, to be used during the construction of the permanent line.

The members of the House Committee are also anxious to forward the trackage bill, but it will have a somewhat more rocky course in the House itself than in the Senate. The latter body will probably pass the bill when reported, with but little opposition. Its course in the House is problematical.

DYNAMITE PLOT FAILS.

Explosive Placed by Street Car Strikers Under Rails.

Muncie, Ind., Jan. 7.—The dynamite that was stolen three days ago, and for which the police have searched in vain, began to appear to-day. During the night strike sympathizers had raised two rails on opposite sides of the street car track and under these had placed several sticks of dynamite. It was assumed that the weight of the first car that passed over it would cause the dynamite to explode, but discovery of the explosive caused the plan to miscarry.

There was enough dynamite under the rails to have blown the car to atoms and killed every one on it.

One of the passengers on an early car to-day was a woman. A few moments after she left the car she was attacked by three members of her sex and literally stripped of all her clothing.

Gov. Hanley arrived here to-day in response to calls from labor leaders and politicians who want the soldiers taken away and to inquire into the deportation of A. L. Behner, vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, Behner and Frederick Fox, another labor leader, are accused of inflaming public sentiment, and both have left the city and opened headquarters at Anderson.
